Dean Jacobs noted the University of Toronto’s sixth place ranking in the QS World University ranking of disciplines related to sport, exercise sciences, kinesiology and physical education. Dean Jacobs urged faculty members to always cite the “Faculty of Kinesiology & Physical Education” as their primary affiliation in publications (including student publications) because it has an effect on the Faculty’s ranking and grant proposals.

Dean Jacobs remarked that the Provost’s report at the professoriate retreat was informative and noted that the Faculty will be well positioned to be an important contributor to metrics by which the University’s performance will be assessed by the Province of Ontario in the future.

Dean Jacobs provided an update on the University’s new policy on Reporting of Sexual Harassment and Sexual Violence. Dean Jacobs urged everyone to become familiar with this policy and sensitized to these issues.

Dean Jacobs reported on a recent meeting with the Director, Professional Practice (CAPS) and Quality Assurance at Health & Wellness to review the Faculty’s embedded Wellness Counsellor service. c. Associate Dean, Research
Professor Tremblay discussed a potential motion to amend the By-Laws of the Faculty. The goal of the proposed amendment is to reduce the total number of person-hours on all committees and to ensure consistency. The motion also will include a proposal for meetings to be held as open meetings. Professor Tremblay noted that other formal committees across the university, including Governing Council, hold open meetings unless confidential matters are being discussed. According to the University of Toronto Act, our Faculty Council and standing committee meetings also should be open.

There was discussion regarding whether the motion ought to be circulated electronically. Professor Tremblay said that he will circulate information regarding the proposal so that Faculty Council members can consider it.

Professor Tremblay reported on changes to the research renewal process. These updates are from the Federal level, and propose various recommendations, including creation of a National Advisory Council on Research and Innovation. Professor Tremblay encouraged all members to pay attention to the report.

Professor Tremblay also reported that the University of Toronto has initiated its review of the Strategic Research Plan. The Vice-President, Research and Innovation struck a committee for the review process, and a draft plan will be shared with the University of Toronto community by fall 2017, seeking governance approval for January 2018.
